About Morioka

IFIPTM2010 will be held in the city of Morioka, Iwate. The city is a small and quiet castle town, with old temples and shrines, often compared to Kyoto.

How to Get There The 4th IFIP International Conference on Trust Management (TM2010) will be held in the city of Morioka, located in the Tohoku region, 535 kilometers northwest of Tokyo. For participants traveling from outside of Japan the best way to get to Morioka will be to fly into Narita airport. From Narita airport, you can get to Morioka via Tokyo Station.

Narita airport to Tokyo station by train (recommended) is 53 minutes at 2,940 yen. Narita Express operates between Narita airport and Tokyo station. It runs every hour and provides easy and comfortable way to Tokyo station. As an alternative to train, Airport Limousine bus service also runs between Narita airport and Tokyo station. It takes 2 hours and 25 minutes from Tokyo station to Morioka station by Tohoku Shinkansen bullet train. You can purchase a ticket at Ticket Offices ("Midori-no-madoguchi") in Tokyo station. Aiina, where the conference will be held, is 4 minutes walk from Morioka station.

History

The city of Morioka was founded in 1597 when the 26th lord of the Nambu clan, Nobunao, began the construction of Morioka Castle. As the streets around the castle gradually developed, merchant traffic from various districts increased dramatically. With an abundance of local products, including gold, horses, and seafood, the city prospered and became a center of economic and political activity.

The Nambu family retained control of the area until the Meiji Restoration of 1868. In 1871 the area became Morioka Prefecture, and was renamed Iwate Prefecture a year later. Like many symbols of Japan's feudal past, the castle was destroyed in 1874, leaving only the stone foundation walls. However, the castle site was later transformed into Iwate Park, and together with the surrounding historical streets still whispers to us of the long history and culture of this city. (This article is reprinted from "Web Morioka" an English language guide on Morioka, provided by Morioka Municipal Government.)
